

Both Sides the Tweed (Dick Gaughan)

Instrumental: Am Am7 F / • C Am G / • Am Am7 F / • C G Am /
 F / C / • Am / G / • Am Am7 F / • C G Am /

Am                  Am7                  F /                  C

1 What's the spring-breathing jasmine and rose?    What's the summer with Am                  G /                  Am                  Am7                  F / all its gay train? Or the splendour of autumn to those C                                  G                                  Am /
 Who've bartered their freedom for gain?

F                  F                  C /                  Am                  /                  G /

Ch Let the love of our land's sacred rights                  To the love of our people succeed, Am                  Am7 F F                  C                  G                  Am /
 Let friendship and honour unite                  And flourish on both sides the Tweed.

Am                  Am7                  F /                  C                  Am G /

2 No sweetness the senses can cheer,                  Which corruption and bribery bind;
                          Am                  Am7                  F /                  C                  G                  Am /
 No brightness that gloom can e'er clear,                  For honour's the sum of the mind.

[Chorus]

Instrumental: Am Am7 F / C Am G / Am Am7 F / C G Am /
 F / C / Am / G / Am Am7 F / C G Am /

Am Am7                  F /                  C                  Am G /

3 Let virtue distinguish the brave,                  Place riches in lowest degree;
                          Am                  Am7                  F /                  C                  G                  Am /
 Think them poorest who can be a slave,                  Them richest who dare to be free.

F                  F                  C /                  Am                  /                  G /

Ch Let the love of our land's sacred rights                  To the love of our people succeed, let Am                  Am7 F /                  C                  G friendship and honour unite,                  and flourish on both sides the Am /                  C—                  G—                  Am Am Am Am—
 Tweed;                  and flourish on both sides the Tweed.
