

Niel Gow's Apprentice (Mike Marra)

Refrain:

1. 2.

ḊC#BAF# ED E EF#GF#E D F# A Ḋ A ABC# A
 F# A A A A E G G G F# D F# A A A A
 E G G F# F# B B B B C# Ḋ Ḋ Ḋ Ḋ Ḋ
 Ḋ C# B A A G F# F# A A A A E G F# E D

Ch Oh no more will I rove no more, it's over;
 Oh no more will I rove no more, it's done.
 I'll sit beneath the fiddle tree with the ghost of Niel Gow next to me,
 Listen, Niel, your apprentice has begun.

1 The old man looked in the inglenook and wondered,
 His brother in a foreign land he must remain.
 When deived about the life he'd choose,
 They each would wear the other one's shoes,
 This motherland is a source of constant pain.

[Chorus]

[Refrain]

2 Rumblin' Brig I hear your music calling;
 In the outback still I heard your song.
 Living off a foreign field with
 Far more fish than the Braan could yield,
 This trip will be my last and it won't be long.

Ch Oh no more will I rove no more, it's over;
 Oh no more will I rove no more, it's done.
 I'll sit beneath the fiddle tree
 With the ghost of Niel Gow next to me,
 Listen, Niel, your apprentice has begun.

[Refrain]

----- A cappella: -----
Oh no more will I rove no more, it's done.—

Niel Gow's Oak, or "the fiddle tree", where the famous fiddler would sit and compose tunes.

S-2: Niel Gow's Apprentice