

Nigel Gatherer's Scottish Collection

Wha'll be King but Charlie? (traditional)

jig

D Bm D Bm

Bm F#m Bm F#m Bm

Bm Bm Bm A D

Bm F#m Bm F#m Bm

The Campbells are Coming (traditional)

jig

G Em G D

G G Em C G Em

Em G Em C

G Em G Em C G Em

Wha'll Be King but Charlie?

Wha'll Be King But Charlie was published in 1816 by Capt Simon Fraser, who noted that it was a tune we have in common with Ireland. There it is known as Behind the Bush in the Garden. The Campbells Are Comin' O-ho, O-ho! was a song from probably the early 18th century when John Campbell, Duke of Argyle (pictured right), was made commander-in-chief of George I's forces in Scotland and contributed to its suppression.

