

Nigel Gatherer's Scottish Collection

Wha'll be King but Charlie? (traditional)

jig

The Campbells are Coming (traditional)

jig

Wha'll Be King But Charlie was published in 1816 by Capt Simon Fraser, who noted that it was a tune we have in common with Ireland.

There it is known as Behind the Bush in the Garden.

The Campbells Are Comin' O-ho, O-ho! was a song from probably the early 18th century when John Campbell, Duke of Argyle (pictured right), was made commander-in-chief of George I's forces in Scotland and contributed to its suppression.

Wha'll be King but Charlie?